Praise

So to end with a stutter of praise
For the painful joy of my coming,
For hands and knees that held me,
For breasts the kept me alive.
For the whiskey poured for Granda.
For the water poured by the priest.

For the apple tree in the garden
Where I knew I was born to be king,
For the dressed up yarns of my Da,
For the ups and downs of Herself.

For silver half-crowned birthdays,
For hop-scotch on the street,
For Lizzie Cooney's ice-cream.

Praise too for the backyard
Where the duck, the cat and the dog
Lived unhappily together.

Bless the house and the street
I was born in.

Bless be the day
That the oul fella met her,
Blessed be the day they said 'Yes'.
Ned Crosby

I will reveal to you a
Love Potion
without medicine
without herbs
without any witch's magic.
If you want to be loved
then love!
