The Vocation of Love

The deepest wound of all is that which affects the heart: the feeling that one has not been loved, that one is not precious to anyone.

Many people today are wounded at the heart.

Each of us can do something to heal their wounds.

We have hands that can make things, and minds that can understand things.

But above all we have hearts that can give love.

We can give life to people who are inwardly broken.

We can show them that they are important, and so bring life to them.

Today, Good Shepherd Sunday, is also Vocations Sunday.

But all vocations are vocations of love.

PARISH OFFICE is open to the public. Reflection

And all work is empty save when there is love;
And what is it to work with love?
It is to weave the cloth with threads drawn from your heart, even as if your beloved were to wear that cloth.
It is to build a house with affection, even as if your beloved were to dwell in that house.
If you cannot work with love but only with distaste, it is better that you should leave your work, and sit at the gate of the temple and take alms from those who work with joy.
For if you bake bread with indifference,
You bake a bitter bread that feeds but half a person's hunger. And if you grudge the crushing of the grapes,
Your grudge distils a poison in the wine.
Work is love made visible.

Reflection:

Hope
Hope looks for the good in people instead of harping on the bad.
Hope opens doors where despair will close them.
Hope discovers what can be done
Instead of grumbling about what cannot be done.
Hope lights a candle instead of cursing the darkness.
Hope regards problems small or large as opportunities.
Hope pushes ahead when it would be easy to quit.
Hope puts up with modest gains,
Realising that the longest journey begins with one step.
Hope draws its power from a deep trust in God
And the basic goodness of people.
Hope is a good loser
Because it had the divine assurance of final victory.

*Good Luck to Glenamaddy Players on the Awards Night at the
All Ireland Drama Finals in Mountmellick on Saturday 27th
April. We hope you do well.*
